Add to this our committed support staff and you have the best learning environment to help you move towards your future.

Study at Massey, while you're still at school

If you've completed NCEA Level 3 in a subject, you may be able to take a Massey course, while you're still at school. Your credits should be mostly at 'Merit' or 'Excellence'. You also need to have achieved the numeracy and literacy standards required for university admission.

Due dates

All of the courses listed in this guide run during Semester One 2022. Applications should be sent as soon as possible, and not normally later than the first week of Semester One (starts late February)

What happens next?

- > Complete the 'School + Massey Admission Form'.
- > Ask your parent or legal guardian and the school staff who will be involved in your course of study to complete the 'Authorisation of Supporting Parent and School Staff' form. These are the people who can contact Massey University on your behalf.
- > Attach/staple your documents to the inside the form, and post or courier it to Massey.

Documents you'll need include:

- > A copy of your birth certificate, or your passport photo page and New Zealand Permanent Residency if you are a citizen of another country. These copies will need to be verified by a Justice of the Peace.
- > A verified copy of proof of name change, if your NCEA results are in a different name from your identity documents.
- > A document from your school if there are NCEA credits not yet submitted to NZQA (New Zealand Qualifications Authority).
- > A statement from you outlining why you wish to study at Massey University.
- > A recommendation from your school principal.

You do not need to supply your NCEA results – Massey University can obtain these from NZQA once we have your NSI number.
